What action needs to happen after this form is lodged with the Office of the Registrar of Indigenous Corporations (ORIC)?

The applicant must publish a copy of this notice within 14 days of giving it to the Registrar, a statement informing substantial creditors that they may object to the grant of the application in a national newspaper or daily newspaper for each state or territory in which any of the amalgamating corporations has a registered office or carries on business or other operations. If the above material is published in a number of newspapers, all of the publications must occur on the same day.

A substantial creditor of any of the amalgamating corporations has 21 days after this material is published to object to the grant of the application (this is known as the objection period).

During the objection period, each of the amalgamating corporations must take reasonable steps to inform their creditors of the proposed amalgamation and their right to object to the grant of the application.

If the applicant proceeds with an application to register an amalgamated corporation, the applicant will need to provide a copy of the published notice and evidence that the other requirements mentioned above have been met.
